

Regina Hexaphone

"A pastoral dream of evocative imagery and subtle style."

Grayson Currin, Independent Weekly

"Beautiful and mesmerizing to listen to."

Jeri Rowe, Greensboro News and Record

"A rich, sonorous excursion through gentle, loping melodies guided by Sara Bell's dreamy vocals."

Chris Parker, Independent Weekly

"It's the only place worth being."

M.J. Fine, Philadelphia City Paper

"A band that even on the worst of days would be able to convince you that it is a beautiful world indeed."

Jenn Young, Daily Athenaeum

"Sara Bell...has a voice that sounds as though she is singing directly to you. (The Beautiful World is) an intriguing cohesive collection of off-centre indie folk with interesting touches."

Americana UK

North Carolina's Regina Hexaphone return with Into Your Sleeping Heart, a stunning sophomore release, on the new Raleigh label/management collective Superfan Records. Following their 2004 debut The Beautiful World, the Hex have crafted another confident genre-melding musical palette from which the songs and stories of Sara Bell spring forth and burrow their way deep into your memory. Call it folk, call it pop, call it rock, call it Americana: this is magical music for the heart and the soul.

Sara Bell and Regina Hexaphone have been kicking around for nigh on ten years, but their musical pedigrees extend well beyond that. A talented multi-instrumentalist in her own right, Bell has toured extensively, played various instruments and assumed various roles with Tres Chicas, Anders Parker, Dana & Karen Kletter, Dish, Shark Quest, Jeffrey Dean Foster and many others. Bassist Chris Clemmons founded the Hex with Bell in 1997. Drummer and legendary indie rock producer Jerry Kee played in Dish with Bell and has played with and recorded more bands at his Duck Kee Studio than can possibly be listed here. Bell, Clemmons and Kee are joined on "Into Your Sleeping Heart" by part-time members Nathan Brown and Margaret White (Cat Power, Jennifer O'Connor, Portastatic, Belle & Sebastian, Sparklehorse). Special guests include Anders Parker (Varmaline) and Greg Humphreys (Hobex).
